

It Was Never Separate

It no longer felt outside of you.

What you were seeing and what you were became harder to separate.

The moment wasn't happening in front of you.

You were already inside it.

It was never separate.